ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Gratitude is extended to the many city and town officials who unselfishly responded and generously shared the necessary information to assist the United Community Planning Corporation staff and the committee in its review process.

Special appreciation is also offered to the committee participants, the UCPC support staff and the Old Colony Planning Council for their work and assistance during the course of the project.

THE 1980 BOSTON SMSA

CENSUS TRACTS WITH BOUNDARY CHANGES

Introduction

Every ten years the US Bureau of the Census is required to take a count of all persons living in the United States. Information on age, family structure, employment, wages, housing and other vital social characteristics is gathered, thereby making it possible to assemble an accurate profile of communities across the nation, as well as the country as a whole.

When reporting this information on small areas, such as the cities and town around Boston, the Bureau details data by "census tract," a standard unit of land containing between 2,500 and 8,000 people of fairly homogenous character. If a large area were not divided into tracts, small area statistics could not be made available on it by the Bureau.

Census tracts are generally small, relatively permanent areas into which metropolitan and certain other areas are divided for the purpose of providing statistics for small areas that will be comparable over time.

Tract boundaries are established cooperatively by a local census committee and the Census Bureau in accordance with guidelines that impose limitations on population size and specify the need for visible boundaries. Geographic shape and areal size of tracts are of relatively minor importance.

Tract boundaries are established with the intention of being maintained over a long time so that statistical comparisons can be made from census to census. However, occasional changes may be made in tract boundaries due to physical changes in street patterns caused by highway construction, park development, urban renewal programs or the doubling of population. Such changes might make it necessary to alter tract boundaries or split tracts. The Boston SMSA specifically experienced changes because of population shift and expansion in some areas such as the Campus High Project Area new construction and the Southwest Corridor development within the City of Boston.

The Committee and Its Task

The Census Statistical Areas Committee of United Community Planning Corporation is the local group designated by the Bureau of the Census to review all changes in the tracts in the Boston area before each decennial census and to recommend necessary revisions to the Bureau. It has served in this capacity since 1946. The UCPC staff traditionally is the key census tract contact for the Boston SMSA.

The Committee is comprised of individuals from a number of professions and disciplines but all having a common interest and experience in census statistical data. The Census Statistical Areas Committee, charged with the task of preparing the tracts for the 1980 enumeration, was under the chairmanship of a publishing executive and included representatives from planning and research agencies, municipal planning departments, universities and community organizations. A number of committee members had previous experience tracting the Boston area, four participated in the 1970 review while three were active in the 1960 preparation. An overseas assignment prevented one of the prime contacts in the census activities from being on hand for the deliberations for the current census.

The Census Statistical Areas Committee began its work in 1976 to review tracts in all of the cities and towns within the Boston SMSA. To assemble pertinent information for the review process, the staff made appropriate contacts by mail, telephone, and personal visits to municipal representatives at the level of mayors, selectmen, city planning boards, engineering departments and, in most instances, town clerks. Detailed data on population changes, new home and highway construction where available was also obtained to aid in the determination of tract revisions and other changes.

The Committee's recommendations centered primarily on cities and towns that have experienced population growth. In most cases the Committee advised sub-dividing or splitting tracts when their populations exceeded 8,000 people. New splits were proposed as well as the addition of new cities and towns to the SMSA thus increasing the 1970 total of 528 tracts to 584 tracts for 1980.

Completing their intensive reviews in 1977, the Committee submitted its recommendation of tract revisions to the Bureau of the Census. After making other pertinent adjustments within the total package submission, the Bureau approved the proposed changes.

While changes and splits within the tracts are readily identifiable, it might be necessary for users to compare the 1980 data and boundaries against those of 1970. For this purpose, a limited number of the "1970 Numbering System For the Boston SMSA Census Tracts with Boundary Changes" will be available through the United Community Planning Corporation Publication Department.

Other Committee Activities, 1976 - 1980

The Committee's activities were expanded in preparation for the 1980 Decennial Count. The Committee was called upon by the Bureau to review a number of cities and towns outside the Boston SMSA. It would be appropriate to note at this juncture that the Committee also received assistance from the Old Colony Census Statistical Areas Committee which prepared the delineations for four towns previously contiguous to the Brockton SMSA.

Among the Committee's additional works were the reviews of the Central Business District, the Major Retail Centers, and Boston's Economic Areas programs.

THE BOSTON SMSA 1970 - 1980

The Boston Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) is the sixth largest metropolitan area in the United States. It is bounded on the north by the Lowell and Haverhill SMSA's, Ipswich, Essex and Gloucester; on the south by the Brockton and Providence SMSA's and Halifax; on the east by the Atlantic Ocean; and on the west by a single row of towns separating it from the Worcester SMSA.

Now comprised of ninety-three municipalities, the Boston SMSA has increased by nine cities and towns since 1970. The addition of Boxborough, Holliston and Kingston began the increase. The towns of Bellingham, Franklin and Wrentham in Norfolk County also have been added to the Boston SMSA for 1980. These towns were in the Providence-Warwick-Pawtucket SMSA in 1970. Stoughton located in Norfolk County, and Abington and Hanson, both in Plymouth County and now in the Boston SMSA for 1980, were in the Brockton SMSA in 1970.
